Experience freedom. Get on your bike and start your adventure. The wild romantic expanse between the Baltic Sea and the Lake District promises a varied holiday in the saddle. The most calf-friendly tours connect sea and lakes, Hanseatic cities and fishing villages, palaces and brick churches.
Mecklenburg-Vorpommern starts where everyday life ends. Between the major cities of Hamburg and Berlin you will find a region that couldn't be more unique and full of variety.

In this coastal area, the air tastes of sea, forests and flowers blooming in the meadows. A soft breeze clears your head. Even the sky seems higher than at home. In glorious silence, the traveller only hears birdsong, splashing water and their own pulse. Even after the first bend in the road, the hustle and bustle of daily life is left far behind. Roll up your trouser leg, hop onto the saddle and set off on an adventure of freedom. 9 cycle routes, 21 cycling circuit tours, many day trips as well as hand bike tours lead you far into the country on a closely linked network of cycle paths. Golden yellow fields of rapeseed, velvet green forests and blooming fields run open up like seams next to your path. Chestnuts and lime trees spread a canopy of leaves over picturesque avenues. They lead to sleepy villages where storks clatter and geese honk. City walls and impressive brick churches have watched over cozy small towns for centuries. Palaces surrounded by roses and romantic manor houses, white seaside resorts and proud Hanseatic cities provide picture perfect images.
Holiday at your own pace
The soft, undulating north is suitable for inexperienced “newbies” too. Everyone can decide how far and how fast they wish to cycle. Whether at a lake, on the beach or at a palace - idyllic places abound, inviting you to take a break to catch your breath. In some regions, two or more cycle routes cross. It is easy to combine the routes with each other. Good signposting ensures that no one leaves the right path.

Energy & well-being
After a day on your saddle you deserve a break full of wellness. The healthy north pampers its guests with a unique cornucopia of local remedies. Bubbling seawater and iodine-rich salt water, white chalk and black moors, mild sea air and many hours of sun revive your body and soul. Sea resort villas and Gründerzeit palaces, resorts and manor houses are home to luxurious temples of well-being.

Relaxing break: Whether cycling next to the sea, strolling over the waves or feasting in a restaurant - relaxation is everywhere.
Cycling

between the sea and lakes

Cycling holidays in the blue-green north is pure refreshment seeing as it is never far to the next "bath tub." In Germany's number one water world, water murmurs, splashes, flows and bubbles wherever you go.

On its endless beach promenades, cyclists can discover small harbours and still bays along 1,943 kilometres of Baltic coast. You will ride from lake to lake and from palace to palace, through forests and meadows - sometimes over bumpy cobblestones and soft forest floors. Holiday cyclists are happy to accept this. After all, they are searching for true nature which has been lost elsewhere.

Those from big cities will be impressed with an extraordinary diversity of rare animals and plants. Sea eagles and osprey, cranes and storks float above you in the sky. In the reeds, otters play and the reflection of water lilies, irises and orchids sparkles on the water's surface. Extensive areas of the country are under special protection. Three national parks, three biosphere reserves and seven nature parks preserve a fabulous world of flora and fauna. Visitors can experience these vivid, original landscapes on their tours. Rangers show you where cranes dance and beavers build their lodges. A wonderful experience awaits you at all times of year.
In grand style
Behind the region’s many hills, around 2,000 palaces, parks and manor houses await its visitors. Hardly any other region in Europe is sewn so densely with such precious pearls. Many were awoken and lovingly restored from their deep beauty sleep. Today, many lead new lives as hotels, restaurants, or museums. Cyclists are warmly invited to get off their bikes and stop for a while.

Seeing and hearing
Barns and palaces, parks and harbours, brick cathedrals and village churches transform into breath-taking backdrops for amazing events. For fans of classical music, Mecklenburg-Vorpommern is considered to be synonymous with special concerts. Visitors feel as if they have stepped into a fairytale at the Schlossfestspiele (palace festivals) in Schwerin, Neustrelitz and Ludwigslust. The fiery historical spectacles around Störtebeker, Wallenstein and Vineta attract large audiences. The highlights of maritime events on the water, such as the Rostock Hanse Sail, the Lake Müritz Sail and the Warnemünde Week enthral thousands of visitors every year.
Routes & orientation

The long-distance cycle routes are well signposted with pictograms. Many of the circuit tours have already been signposted too. We recommend using a cycle map for the respective region so that you can find your way back to the main route after small detours. You can find all information regarding tours, routes and excursions on the internet at: www.off-to-mv.com/en/cycling. Here you can download your route as a GPX file on your GPS device in order to guide you along your chosen route. You can find accommodation and special offers for your holiday at: www.off-to-mv.com.

Bus & rail

If you wish to arrive in the north in a relaxed way or skip tour segments, there are several rail and bus companies available. The DB (German train company) runs a service line via Tel. +49 180 6 99 66 33 (20 ct/call from landlines, max. 60 ct/call from mobile phones). During the cycling season, even narrow-gauge railways, passenger ships and buses with bicycle trailers are happy to take your bike on board.

All-round service for cyclists

Pure pleasure: Explorers can look forward to numerous tour options and friendly hosts, who are always well-prepared to welcome cyclists.
One of Germany’s most modern road networks provides a fast and comfortable arrival. From Hamburg and Berlin, you can be in the middle of nature within one or two hours. The region is easily accessible by rail as well. In fact, bikers don’t even need to bring their own bikes. You will find rental companies and bicycle repair shops with comfortable bikes and the matching tools everywhere you go.

Numerous bed+bike hotels, hostels and guest houses roll out the red carpet for cyclists. Whether you are spending your holiday here or just staying for the night. You can dry your clothes and use tools for smaller repairs. Besides maps, bus and train schedules, you will be able to get valuable, first-hand local knowledge.
Long-distance cycle routes

Exciting tours through Germany’s beautiful north

Mecklenburg-Vorpommern is a dream destination for many cyclists. Or possibly the start of a cycling dream. It’s up to you. In total, nine routes take you through the coastal area. Each is more attractive and varied than the other. At some point, all paths lead to water - to the Baltic Sea, the Lake Müritz or one of the thousand lakes. In this brochure, you will discover eight long-distance cycle routes. Each will delight you with its very own charm. It’s best if you experience it for yourself.

Close to the sea

Spectacular seaside resorts, proud Hanseatic towns, three islands and a peninsula along the Baltic Sea cycle route, where holiday cyclists can discover Mecklenburg-Vorpommern from its most beautiful side. Time and time again, the route takes you along the coastline, only leaving it to make a quick detour into the charming hinterland.

The starting point of the tour is Lübeck-Travemünde. Beyond the dreamy, hilly landscape of the Klützer Winkel, cyclists will reach the UNESCO World Heritage Site of Wismar. In the Bay of Wismar, myriads of waterfowl rest on Poel Island, an idyllic fisherman’s island. Past the Baltic resort of Rerik and over Kühlung Hill, the cycle route leads into the Baltic resort of Kühlungsborn and on to Heiligendamm, the white town by the sea. Following the bluff, the route continues to the seaside resort of Warnemünde. On the opposite bank of the river Warnow the Rostock heath extends, a giant area of forest surrounding the Baltic resorts of Markgrafenheide and Graal-Müritz.

The tour takes cyclists further to the Fischland-Darß-Zingst peninsula, a popular stop for migratory birds. With its colourful captain’s houses and rustic zeesen boat, Wustrow puts you in the mood for the wild, romantic peninsula. One highlight is the former artists’ colony Ahrenshoop with its thatched houses huddled amongst the gently rolling dunes.

In spring and autumn, swarms of cranes accompany cyclists to the UNESCO World Heritage Site of Stralsund, the awe-inspiring gateway to Germany’s largest island.

Enchanting views: Germany’s oldest seaside resort Heiligendamm and the Nienhagen ghost forest are particular highlights.

A world of water, full of experiences: The harbour of Ahrenshoop, the Darß west beach and the waves of the Baltic sea invite cyclists to stroll, wander and surf.
Rügen is one of nature’s masterpieces. The cycle route goes around the island, Cape Arkona, the famous chalk cliffs, as well as the elegant seaside resort villas in Binz, Sellin and Göhren.

The River Peene is not far from the University and Hanseatic town of Greifswald. At Wolgast the gates open to the sunny Isle of Usedom. Baltic resorts line the wide beaches with their promenades and their well-preserved resort architecture all the way to Ahlbeck. Gently rolling hills and promontories are a typical sight in this natural paradise.

Further routes:
For anyone who thinks 695 km of cycle route is not enough, they can extend their tour to the European cycle route EuroVelo 10 towards Poland or start in Denmark.

Beyond Usedom, the route on the Polish side runs past the spa town of Kolberg with its natural brine spring, fresh sea air and healing moors. In the Slowinski National Park, cyclists meet imposing shifting sand dunes before reaching the venerable Hanseatic town of Danzig. Danzig’s impressive historic backdrop with its tranquil alleys and 13 artistically designed town gates has enchanted many a visitor.

In Denmark, the starting point of the tour is Copenhagen. The Baltic Sea cycle route takes cyclists past the lavish Gravenstein Palace, the Danish royal family’s summer residence and Møns Klint, the majestic chalk cliffs, and on towards the border to Schleswig-Holstein. If you wish to shorten the tour, you can book the ferry from Gedser to Rostock and continue the trip from there.

You can find information about the entire tour at the European Cyclists’ Federation at “www.eurovelo10.com”.

Romantic trip to an island of your dreams

An inviting cycle route connects North Germany’s largest town with Germany's biggest island. It takes cyclists right through the middle of Mecklenburg-Vorpommern, past fairytale palaces and shimmering lakes, over the hills of Mecklenburg Schweiz to the world-famous chalk cliffs of Rügen.

Holiday cyclists are accompanied by the River Elbe to Lauenburg and by the Elbe-Lübeck canal to the town of Mölln, home to Eulenspiegel. It continues, past Lake Ratzeburg into idyllic Mecklenburg-Vorpommern. Between the island town of Ratzeburg and Gadebusch, cyclists discover the beauty of the UNESCO Biosphere Reserve of Lake Schäalsee, enchanted waters with kingfishers, otters, cranes and grey herons.

In Schwerin, the capital of Mecklenburg-Vorpommern, the palace island tempts cyclists to park their bikes and relax with a coffee, watching the sailing boats go by. Beyond the castles of Gadebusch and Schwerin, Wiligrad Palace appears above Lake Schwerin in a romantic park and at Lake Bibow, Hasenwinkel Palace invites you to take a break. Behind the Barlach city of Güstrow, the hilly landscape of Mecklenburg Schweiz begins, with more dreamy palaces and glittering lakes.

The so-called “Three Steamd Land” of the rivers Peene, Tollense and Trebel is famous for its abundance of fish. The Hanseatic town of Demmin invites to take a break. Cyclists follow the natural bends of the River Trebel towards Lake Tribsees, and soon they will see the impressive silhouette of the UNESCO World Heritage Site of Stralsund. After crossing the Rügendamm, cyclists reach Germany’s biggest island with its endless sandy beaches, craggy steep coasts and glamorous seaside resorts. Past rustic villages and picturesque alleys, cyclists arrive in the classicist Putbus. North of Sassnitz, the Jasmund National Park awaits, whose snow-white chalk cliffs were made famous by the painter Caspar David Friedrich.

Green-blue land between metropolises

Out of the metropolis and into nature. When urban dwellers get a longing for lakes, they can jump on their saddles, following well-developed cycle routes past forests, lakes and fields and reach not only the Baltic Sea, but even pass it and cycle to Copenhagen.

At the lake Ellbogensee cyclists cross the border into Mecklenburg-Vorpommern. A mosaic of 320 lakes with hidden swimming spots and picturesque picnic sites invite visitors to relax. The queen of the lakes is Lake Müritz. She lent her name to the neighbouring national park. A paradise, where pine woods, beech groves and alder forests alternate. At least 800 butterfly and 260 bird species live here - including bitterns, osprey, storks and cranes. In spring and autumn, the cackling of 50,000 wild geese can be heard. In the harbour at Waren (Müritz) small boats bob on the waves of Germany’s largest inland lake. The ideal place to seek a cosy spot inside one of the numerous cafés.

At Jabel, the extensive forests of the Nature Park Nossentiner/Schwinzer Heide begin. It is comfortable to cycle beneath the shade of fragrant pines, then enjoy a dip in Lake Drewitz or Lake Krakow. Cyclists cross the crystal-clear waters of the Nebel Rivulet, which forces its way through a narrow valley near Serrahn.

In Alt Sammit and Bellin, stone churches, burial mounds and stone graves invite you to take a journey back in time. The residence town of Güstrow unites architectural styles from many centuries - from gothic brickwork to classicism. Close by lies the small town of Bützow with its alleyways which invites visitors to ramble. The lush meadows of the Warnow greet all cyclists here, accompanying them down to the Baltic Sea.

The magnificent backdrop of Rostock has warmed the hearts of seafarers already in ancient times. Three monumental brickwork churches tower above the Hanseatic town. A short ferry ride across the Baltic Sea and the journey continues through Denmark’s beautiful south. The journey culminates in Copenhagen with its mix of tradition and the cosmopolitan.

A water paradise of lakes and the sea

On this cycle route, water glitters and babbles behind nearly every bend. Lake Müritz, Germany’s largest inland lake, is the centrepiece of this route. The Müritz National Park and the small lakes of the Mecklenburg Lake District can be found on its eastern shore. The arrival on the sunny Isle of Usedom is the spectacular finale of the trip.

From Lüneburg, the cycle route leads you through the Elbe floodplains to the Griese area. A splendid palace in Ludwigslust glitters in a landscape of horse paddocks and fields. In Neustadt-Glewe, medieval fortifications watch over the gate to Lewitz. A bird reserve is home to many canals and fish ponds and the River Elbe invites visitors to swim and paddle.

In Röbel/Müritz, cyclists reach Germany’s largest inland lake. The silence of the Müritz National Park, which is only interrupted by the murmur of ancient trees, is an enchanting contrast to the exuberant harbour town of Waren (Müritz). Off the saddle and up the Käfling Watch Tower - a 55 m high viewpoint of the green miracle from the perspective of a sea eagle.

The journey continues to Vorpommern. The first town on the Stettin Lagoon is Ueckermünde. Beyond Anklam, cyclists cross the River Peene to reach the Isle of Usedom. The home straight provides a glittering reception: The Baltic resorts lie, embedded like snow-white pearls, between the velvet green dune forests and the dreamy beach on the rustic island. In Wolgast, at the River Peene, the cycle route ends.

Following the rivers to the sea

Like the cyclists, they flow towards the sea: the River Oder and the River Neiße. From the Czech Republic via Brandenburg, the cycle route reaches the border of Mecklenburg-Vorpommern. From here, it’s just a skip and a jump to Usedom, where the fine sand beaches and wide sea wait to be conquered.

Excursions by boat: The excursion boats stop at the town harbour in Ueckermünde.

It starts with some light sport in the Jizera Mountains: The birthplace of the Neiße offers pleasurable ascents and descents with heavenly views. North of Frankfurt (River Oder), the Neiße unites with the Oder, their dykes are equipped with wonderful cycle routes.

Shortly before the border to Mecklenburg-Vorpommern, the cycle route leaves the River Oder which pours into the Stettin Lagoon on the Polish side.

Vorpommern welcomes its guests with seven idyllic lakes. Through fields blossoming with flowers and undulating fields of the Randowbruch, it is on to Krackow with its typically Vorpommern architecture. Löcknitz snuggles dreamily in the quiet Randow Valley where only the babbling of the river and humming of bees interrupt the stillness. With a thousand-year old oak standing guard, Lake Löcknitz invites visitors to take a refreshing dip.

At Glashütte, the Ueckermünde heath begins - like a green sea, its comforting scent of forest and water blows your lungs free. The town of Ueckermünde captivates with its charming renaissance castle and the lively harbour.

Directly on the water, accompanied by numerous waterfowl, the cycle route leads to the Lilienthal town of Anklam. An imposing folding bridge connects the town to the Isle of Usedom. Enchanting bays, soft hills and blooming rapeseed fields shape the rustic hinterland of the island.

Ahlbeck, the destination of this journey, is one of the emperor’s seaside resorts. These present themselves with the finest resort architecture, a broad promenade, villas of the golden age, filigree piers and kilometres of dream beaches.
From the capital city to the sun island

Even during the emperor’s times, Usedom was known as “Berlin’s bathtub”. While high society used to travel to the glittering seaside resorts by steam train, today many connoisseurs cycle to the north. That’s because the journey to the fine, sandy, and sunny Baltic Sea paradise is an experience in itself.

The journey to the sunny Isle of Usedom begins right in the middle of the pulsing centre of the cosmopolitan city of Berlin. From Prenzlau, cyclists practically fly over the flat meadows of the Uckermark towards Mecklenburg-Vorpommern. The Uecker rivulet accompanies you through Stettin Lagoon Nature Park to Ueckermünde. In damp meadows and among blossoming water lilies, birds, amphibians and butterflies teem. North of Pasewalk, the forest rules. A sea of green pines, white birches and purple heathers reaches up to the lagoon. Like a beacon, the castle tower of Ueckermünde soars high above the old town. A colourful throng of sailing boats, fishing boats and passenger ships spread their maritime flair.

West of the harbour town, cosy fishing villages alternate with seaside resorts with their fine sand.

In Anklam, the birthplace of the aviation pioneer Otto Lilienthal, even the most down to earth cyclists tend to soar. Pass a drawbridge to reach the isle of usedom. While crossing the rustic hinterlands it quickly becomes clear why the island was declared a nature park. The promenade between the emperor’s seaside resorts of Ahlbeck, Heringsdorf and Bansin leads past the magnificent villas of the golden era. Below, the longest sandy beach on the Baltic coast spreads out, which is intersected by elegant piers. On the narrowest part on the island near Lüttenort, the view of the lagoon Achterwasser opens up beyond the cycle route. Fascinated by the beguiling landscape, the painter Otto Niemeyer-Holstein established his studio and residence here.

Idyllic country trip: Luscious green forests and meadows accompany cyclists on their way from lake to lake till they reach the sea.
Spruced up village beauties

In the midst of soft hills, blossoming meadows and cool forests, idyllic villages with respectable manor houses from the 18th and 19th century are located. These splendid buildings impress with Roman columns, baroque ornaments or neogothic arches and in many places with beautiful parks.

The circuit tour starts at the Minster town of Bad Doberan with its well-known Cistercian Abbey and classicist lodges. It leads through a picture-book landscape with small hills, knotted meadows and fields lined with flowers, onwards past wide meadows with horses and cows. Strung, as on a pearl necklace, the manor houses line the road to the birthplace of the man who discovered Troy, Heinrich Schliemann. Neubukow welcomes its guests as an idyllic small town with a well-maintained Dutch windmill.

A few kilometres later, the path leads to Salzhaff, a brine lagoon, where myriads of birds frolic in the waters in front of the peninsula of Wustrow. Between the rapeseed fields around the Bastorf lighthouse, one romantic manor house follows another. The sea is always very close and invites visitors to take a refreshing break.

The kilometre long promenade and pier at the Baltic resort of Kühlungsborn tempts visitors to stay for a while. Glamorous white villas in the resort architectural style, and the snow-white classicism ensemble in nearby Heiligendamm hark back to life during the emperor’s era.

The avenue to Bad Doberan, seamed by splendid linden trees and yellow rapeseed fields, goes past the oldest horse racecourse on the European mainland. A particular highlight is the “Molli” narrow-gauge railway with its huffing and whistling steam engine, which, at times, accompanies cyclists on their way.

Scenic gold: The manor house in Hohen Luckow and the yellow rapeseed fields look like images from a picture book.
Crown jewel between the Baltic Sea and lagoons

The Fischland-Darß-Zingst peninsula belongs to Europe’s most diverse landscapes. Its beaches and bluffs, bays and spits and the lagoons of the National Park Vorpommersche Boddenlandschaft form one single adventure land.

The peninsula between the lagoons and the sea is nature’s building site. The National Park Vorpommersche Boddenlandschaft protects this unique paradise, featuring fine sandy beaches on one side and high reed belts on the other. At western beach, the sea impetuously heaps its sandy loot on the northern tip. Between the wild romance of the coast and the gentle lagoons, the Darß Forest murmurs. The cycle route winds directly along the lagoons. Through the fishing villages of Born and Wieck past reed fields and zeesen boats - traditional boats of the local fishermen. At Prerow, the up to 80 metre wide fine sandy beach calls. Time and time again, the dyke path to Zingst tempts cyclists to go swimming.

Over 100 bird species have made the peninsula the biggest resting site for birds in Central Europe. In spring and autumn, cyclists can admire the cranes’ breathtaking spectacle between Barth and Stralsund. From the Barßt Hüft viewing tower you can see this unique water world from above. Stralsund greets on the horizon, a man-made gem. In the quiet hinterlands of this formerly powerful Hanseatic metropolis, fields, and meadows and brooks are the main features. The villages strewn widely across the landscape with ancient churches and opulent manor houses. In Schlemmin and Semlow, castles glow like fairytales in the midst of beautiful parks. Soon, the graceful Recknitz rivulet crosses the path. On the other side lies Marlow - well-known for its biodiverse bird park.

In numerous loops, the renaturised rivulet Recknitz winds through an primeval valley. The entire lower Recknitz Valley is under strict conservation. Up until the estuary into the lagoon right before Ribnitz-Damgarten, cyclists can follow the border river between Mecklenburg and Vorpommern.

Welcome to the show: In the National Park Vorpommersche Boddenlandschaft, nature directs her own film. She prepares the stage for picturesque sunsets and dancing cranes. A wonderful experience.
Harmony of contrasts

The largest island in Germany amazes visitors with its diversity. Kilometres of sandy beaches and steep coasts, glamorous seaside resorts and rustic fishing villages. Plus its pristine nature. For cyclists there are wonderful views to discover: The world-famous chalk cliffs, the Baltic Sea and lagoons, meadows and forests.

The circuit route starts in Sassnitz with a winding descent to its fishing harbour rich in tradition. Past the flint fields of Mukran and the 4.5 km long “Colossus of Prora”, a relic from the Third Reich, the route leads to the Baltic resorts of Binz, Sellin, Baabe and Göhren, always with salty taste of fresh sea air on your lips. The “Rasender Roland” narrow-gauge railway connects the seaside resorts known for their resort architecture, piers and promenades. The adjacent beech forests of Granitz provide cooling freshness.

The primordial nature of the Mönchgut peninsula with its bays and headlands leads to the next stage in the south of the island. On their way, cyclists can admire the snow-white classicist town ensemble of the residence town of Putbus.

Altefähr offers an impressive panorama of the Stralsund old town. A good contrast to the small fishing villages on Rügen’s west coast. The route to Gingst leads through the nearly deserted nature of Ummanz Island, accompanied by numerous waterfowl and waders and massive swarms of cranes in spring and autumn.

Cyclists take the ferry to the Wittow peninsula. On the wild-romantic Cape Arkona, two lighthouses defy the wind and the weather. The heritage-protected fishing village of Vitt snuggles idyllically in a small bay. Along the kilometre long sandy beach, it is time for the highlight of the circuit tour - the Jasmund National Park with its world-famous chalk cliffs, embedded in the rich green beech forests of the Stubbenkammer.

Pure variety on the sun island

While the seaside resorts are strung like pearls along the 42 kilometre long sandy beach, the green hinterlands of the sun island fascinate with its rustic thatched houses and untouched nature. The contrast of sea, beach, nature and rural idyll makes the cycle tour on Usedom an ever-changing pleasure.

The circuit tour starts in Wolgast. An imposing folding bridge over the River Peene leads to the sunny Isle of Usedom. Passing the silent banks of the waterway, cyclists dive into a mixed forest: Like a green ribbon it stretches along the fine white beach up to Swinemünde in Poland. One seaside resort lies next to the other: Zinnowitz, Bansin, Heringsdorf and Ahlbeck are their most famous representatives.

Elegant villas and snow-white lodges decorate the promenades. You can stroll over the piers which jut far out into the sea, like in the bygone golden age. Rustic fishing villages and thatched brine huts stretch along a narrow strip between the Baltic Sea and Achterwasser lagoons. You can enjoy one of the most beautiful views from the small hill Streckelsberg near Koserow.

In the unspoilt hinterland of the seaside resorts, it is not difficult to guess why the entire island was declared a Nature Park. It is characterised by hills covered with forests and blossoming rapeseed fields, small lakes and secret moors. The Lieper Winkel is an insider’s tip for those looking for tranquillity. More birds than people frolic on the flat flat peninsula in the Achterwasser.

Beloved summer freshness: Over 100 years ago, wealthy city dwellers made their pilgrimage to Usedom. That is what gave the island the nickname of “Berlin’s bathtub”. Today, more and more people searching for relaxation discover the Baltic resorts and the dreamy inland by bicycle.
lagoon. The old town of Usedom does not only impress its guests with the artfully decorated houses. Cultural variety is always looking for its match. Especially in summer, the island turns into a colourful, sonorous stage.

Beyond the Zecheriner folding bridge, cyclists are back on the mainland. Where the River Peene flows into the lagoon, it feels as if you were a child again. Cows blink in the sun, storks teeter through the meadows and in the thick reed belts, croaking frogs compete with the quacking of ducks. The Lassan church tower provides a high point in this flat land. From here it is not far to the starting point in Wolgast.

The small sea

From the northern bank of Lake Müritz, Germany’s biggest inland lake, the well-developed cycle route leads cyclists away from the old town of Waren (Müritz), past the town harbour, straight into Müritz National Park. It is recommended to use the Müritz National Park ticket in order to discover all the attractions in the extensive reserve. A visit to the Müritzeum is worthwhile.

The journey around the “small sea”, Lake Müritz, is without doubt one of the most beautiful experiences for every cycle and nature fan. It starts in Waren (Müritz) and leads into the paradisiacal solitude of Müritz National Park. The rustic forests, enchanted moors and crystal clear lakes on the east shore are like a wildly romantic garden of Eden. Cranes, deer and sea eagles are the indomitable rulers here. In Federow, a video camera lets visitors get a view of an eagle’s nest. On the south shore of Lake Müritz, cyclists reach Rechlin. The narrow southern offshoots of Lake Müritz jut like fjords into the hills covered in dense forest. The tour takes you through this blue-green world of wonders to the west shore of Germany’s biggest inland lake and then directly along the water. Whenever the reeds open up, picturesque villages, creaking boathouses and dreamy bathing areas can be found. The tranquil peninsula of Großer Schwerin is reserved for the birds. Here, cranes, wild geese and coots set the tone. A few kilometres away lies the holiday resort of Röbel/Müritz. Daring stair climbers should not miss out on the view from the 58 meter high church tower on St. Mary’s Church (Marienkirche). The water paradise reaches as far as the eye can see. After that the route continues along the hilly bank. On the isthmus between Lake Müritz and Lake Kölpin, the neorenaissance Klink castle can be seen. In the evening, cyclists return to the promenade of Waren (Müritz) and enjoy a romantic evening walk at the town harbour with numerous bars and restaurants.

Romanticism in Vorpommern

Vorpommern impresses with its picturesque landscape, which influenced and inspired Caspar David Friedrich, Friedrich August von Klinkowström, Philipp Otto Runge and other artists 200 years ago. Discover the original settings on the Caspar David Friedrich Trail in Greifswald or on the Route of North German Romanticism along the beloved Baltic Sea cycle route.

1 | Caspar David Friedrich Trail
Greifswald is the home port of Romanticism, famous not only for its picturesque old town or its location by the sea, but also because Caspar David Friedrich was born here in 1774. The motifs of the greatest Romantic painter are still present in and around Greifswald today - the market square, the museum harbour with its historic ships and the ruins of Eldena Abbey.

A 15-station trail traces the vantage points Friedrich chose as his central themes and outlines the key stages of his life and work.

The art trail can be explored by combining walking (Greifswald old town) and cycling.

Walking tour of the old town:
1.5 km
From the harbour to the abbey ruins: 8.0 km
Extensive tour: 18.0 km

2 | Route of North German Romanticism
From the ruins of Eldena Abbey to the Rungehaus Wolgast, this 54 km Route of North German Romanticism, passes the important life and motif stages of the early romantic painters, Caspar David Friedrich, Friedrich August von Klinkowström, Philipp Otto Runge and poet Karl Gottlieb Lappe. These original settings include Ludwigsburg Castle, Vierow Harbour and the Rungehaus in Wolgast.

Following the Baltic Sea cycle route, information boards at 10 designated stations give an explanation of the art historical themes and provide a selection of interesting tips about further nature and cultural highlights on and along the route.

Unlimited adventure

Especially for handbikers and wheelchair users, Germany’s beautiful north offers barrier-free discovery tours. Accommodations, restaurants, museums and exhibition centres are prepared to welcome guests with disabilities.

1 | Poel Island Tour · 16 km  This quiet road leads from Fährdorf to Gollwitz. Via a surfaced sand path through a dreamy avenue along the steep coast, you can reach the place known as the Schwarzer Busch (Black Bush). There you will find one of the island’s most beautiful beaches for swimming before returning to Fährdorf via Kirchdorf.

2 | Art tour · 18 km  On the Berlin-Copenhagen cycle route, head south from Rostock. Pass the horse paddocks and wide fields, the well tarmacked cycle route winds past the Schwaan artist colony. From Huckstorf to Benitz you will need to put in a little effort for around 1 kilometre, the gradient is about 15%. The reward awaits in Schwaan with a visit to the accessible Kunstmühle (windmill art museum) and a piece of Praselkuchen (a cake made with puff pastry). Return to Rostock by regional train. The Schwaan and Rostock train stations are barrier-free. Tip: If you take the tour in the other direction, then the gradient at Huckstorf is a thrilling descent!

3 | Stettin Lagoon with a sailing trip · 20 km  The border town Altwarp is the starting point for the cycle tour. Before setting off, one should enjoy some fish in this ancient fishing village. It smells of juniper, the signposted asphalt path in a good condition goes via Vogelsang-Warsin and Bellin towards the lagoon town of Ueckermünde. This is the home harbour for the wheelchair sailing boat “Wappen von Ueckermünde”. Sign up for Germany’s first tall ship! Up to four wheelchair users can hoist the sails themselves on day trips and multi-day tours.

4 | Lake Müritz National Park · 34 km  The spa resort of Waren (Müritz) is the starting point for this beautiful cycle tour. From Federow it’s off on surfaced sand paths through the Lake Müritz National Park. The accessible pier jutting into the Lake Priesterbäcker offers a good view. From Rechlin you return to Waren (Müritz) with the accessible ships of the “Weisse Flotte”.

Unlimited freedom: Enjoy lakes and sea.

Barrier-free: Wheelchair users and handbiker can travel the country unlimitedly in more and more places. Many attractions, such as the MÜRITZEUM in Waren (Müritz) offer barrier-free access.
